

Dear Sirs,

I am very excited to hear of the plans for your charitable foundation, which were forwarded onto the MySociety developers email list today.

The company I work for, T7 Consulting, has developed designs for a web application which would provide detailed and up-to-date information on sexual health clinics and STD testing in the UK. We believe our system would mark a step change from current provision such as the database on the Condom Essential Wear website:

<http://www.condomessentialwear.co.uk/get-help>

We are currently in the process of contacting suitable primary care partners, after which we will look to identify sources of funding and an appropriate legal vehicle for the initiative. As it stands, the suggested beneficiaries of the Nominet Foundation would exclude projects such as the one we have developed. I would therefore suggest some 'widening of the net' to include not-for-profit projects and initiatives which use the Internet in an innovative way to deliver services for the benefit of the public.

I look forward to further developments regarding the foundation with great interest. When do you imagine you will formally invite funding proposals?

Kind regards,

Laurence Durnan
