

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 29 and 29 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?
<input checked="" type="radio"/> I agree with the proposal
<input type="radio"/> I don't mind one way or the other
<input type="radio"/> I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal
With the proliferation of cybersquatting, particularly by serial cybersquatters who register hundreds of infringing domain names, the fees to defend our clients' rights are becoming excessive. Cybersquatters recognize this, and are flourishing. Eliminating some of the red tape and expense when combatting cybersquatters would go a long way in helping the cause.
