

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 25 and 25 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?

- I agree with the proposal
- I don't mind one way or the other
- I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal

I was a victim of such kind of a situation. The respondent sent me a notice by his lawyer to give up the names I have full right in while he did not reply to nominet's notice. I had to pay lot more to get my rightfull name back. Very unjust! On the other hand, thinking about the domain name owners; They should be responsible enough to response to a letter if somebody complains against them. If they cannot be at least responsible to that level, I do not have any sympathy for them. So, I agree with the proposal.
