

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 49 and 49 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?

- I agree with the proposal
- I don't mind one way or the other
- I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal

At present any Abusive Registrant can blackmail an innocent party by simply not replying to a complaint. The Innocent Party has then got a choice of paying the fee for the expert decision or buying the name for the price demanded by the Abusive Registrant which will be set just inside the Nominet fee. Obviously those that make a living from registering names abusively will be against this proposal. Large organisations have the money to stop this blackmail but for small charities like us, we have no choice but to accept our name being used abusively.
