

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 88 and 88 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?

- I agree with the proposal
- I don't mind one way or the other
- I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal

Why would I want someone to pay for my domain name? Just because I'm busy with other business issues especially as these complaining people are most likely to be SEOs out to get strategic advantages. If they are genuine they can go through the courts and sue on a trademark basis which is more than justified in itself

3. Please give us your contact details
