

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 116 and 116 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?

- I agree with the proposal
- I don't mind one way or the other
- I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal

The DRS gives both complainants and defendants the opportunity to make their case. Thanks to the support of the Nominet team and the work of the experts, it appears that the process is fair and well-managed. However, undefended cases cause rights owners significant cost and unreasonable delays. The current proposal is apparently a good solution provided the investigation by the Nominet team is thorough.
