

Proposed DRS default transfer process

We are proposing that in undefended DRS cases, the complainant should have the right to a transfer of the domain name registration on payment of a fee of £200 (plus VAT).
Please read our consultation paper for full details of this proposed default transfer process and then answer the questions below.

This document contains respondents between 137 and 137 inclusive.

1. What do you think about our proposal for a default transfer process?

- I agree with the proposal
- I don't mind one way or the other
- I disagree with the proposal

2. Please give your reasons for why you feel this way about the proposal

Too many domains have been registered for 'speculative' purposes i.e. with the intent of selling them on at a later date and are never actually used. This behaviour is highly detrimental to the web ecosystem. I believe the outline proposals to prevent the abuse of the proposed system are more than reasonable and should prevent abuse of the system while allowing genuine complainants to retrieve the domain they fully have the rights to from hoarders.
