What does being a member of Nominet mean in this changing world?

Being a member of Nominet should mean having a real say in the direction we should be heading with domain name registrations in the UK. Members represent a wide range of internet professionals and this should allow Nominet to act both in the interests of its members and for the general public. It should bring benefits of cheaper registrations, early access to new technologies such as eNum, access and the ability to register expiring domain names from the registry.

What are Nominet's obligations to the wider range of stakeholders who are now affected by, or have potential or actual regulatory powers over its actions?

Nominet has an obligation to the general public to provide a reliable, accessible and good value for money framework to allow them to register domains in the UK web space. I feel that that Nominet should be kept self-regulated. I feel it does an exceptional job at present in allowing the above and has fair processes and controls in place to maintain this system.

What do the answers to these questions mean to redesigning the governance system of Nominet?

I do not feel Nominet necessarily needs to change from its present structure. I feel it does a very good job at what it was intended to provide, that is the registrations of domain names for the general public, businesses and internet service providers alike. There are fair controls in place with regard to abusive domain name registrations through the DRS process. The current handling of expiring domain names is I feel fair and need not be changed.

What is the purpose of Nominet?

Nominet's purpose is to exist as an independent body guided by its members to control the registration of domain names in the UK web space. To allow accessible, reliable and good value for money domain name registrations and a customer care service, often through registrars to ensure domain names can be renewed, abusive registrations investigated through DRS and to deal with new technologies such as eNUM.

What are the Vision and Values of Nominet?

Independent body guided by its membership
Reliability, respect, and integrity
Ready to embrace new technologies and share them with the general public
To be run efficiently and effectively

Do you want Nominet to continue as a not-for-profit organisation?

Yes absolutely.

Do you want Nominet to reform the voting procedures to allow members to feel enfranchised?

Yes, I feel more power needs to be given to the members. I do however feel that the membership represents quite a wide range of backgrounds and therefore getting many to engage in certain issues may be difficult.

What is the development strategy of Nominet?

I feel Nominet needs to concentrate on new technologies rather than meddling around with the existing domain name registration service for .co.uk and .org.uk domains which works perfectly well as it is.

Nominet needs to concentrate on services such as eNum, making them more accessible. Embracing new technologies and perhaps considering new domain name extensions.

Split the present Chairman and Managing Director role

The combined role is built into Nominet's constitution. The splitting of these roles has been mandatory for listed companies since 1992. It seems very unwise that Nominet continues what is seen as bad practice here. It reflects badly on Nominet as it does not allow for either role to be developed fully nor for effective Board oversight of each role.

Create a separate role of Managing Director who is a full Board member

This is good corporate governance practice and mandatory under the 2006 Combined Code. If the Chairman is 'the boss of the Board of Nominet' then the Managing Director is 'the boss of the day-to-day operations of Nominet' and is held fully accountable for them. This suggestion would require that the Managing Director becomes a statutory Board member, and that the current role of Chief Executive is absorbed into the MD role.

Revise Nominet's system of voting for directors

This is designed to clarify the present position in Nominet where a conflict can be acknowledged but the Board has currently no power to do anything about it. I am suggesting, for example, the keeping of a register of interests of Board members, the updating of these at each Board meeting and having a clear process for deciding if a conflicted Board member may speak to a topic, whether they can vote on a specific issue, and that these decisions are recorded in the Board minutes.

Give the Board the power to appoint at least two experienced and independent non-executive directors to the Board in addition to the present NED composition.

There are four reasons for making this proposal:

First, to add wider diversity to the industry-specific experience of Directors elected from the membership. This is always an issue in membership-based organisations as many elected Directors do not have any previous directorial experience.

Second, to allow Nominet to be seen to be acknowledging their wider role in creating the 'public good' by bringing in some externally-orientated Directors with their critical, independent oversight to balance the Board's risk assessment and decision making processes.

Third, to give the Board flexibility in bringing specific functional experience onto it where there is an obvious need.

Fourth, to allow the appointment of a Senior Independent Director who can act as a point of contact for members wishing to discuss issues such as the performance of the Chairman.

I suggest that good practice for these independent NEDs is that they are part of the Board's annual evaluation, and that they have a maximum term of three three-year contracts subject to satisfactory performance.

Ensure that the Board has on it three Executives who are also statutory Directors

This is a further step in achieving better balance on the Board by having the Managing Director and other supporting roles as Board members as part of their employment contract. This would allow broader regular Board oversight mechanisms of the business and the development of Nominet.

Appoint a professionally-trained Company Secretary as an Officer of the Board

This role has proved crucial in many Boards, especially those onto which many members may be appointed without previous directorial experience. The Company Secretary is expected to ensure good practice and legal compliance around the boardroom table and to act as 'the conscience of the Board' when necessary.

Create a clear job description for each director

This is to go beyond the existing job description that is contained currently within the call for members' nominations to the Board. It needs to state their corporate legal duties and responsibilities, time commitments and the personal liabilities to which they will be committed. Such job descriptions must apply equally to the Chairman, the Managing Director and any other executives who are statutory directors.

Create annual evaluation and development plans for the Board itself, each committee and each individual director

This is standard practice and is contained in, for example, the Combined Code, the NHS Monitor Code, and, please note DBERR's Building Better Boards recommendations. They, and others, advocate using the Learning Board Model in which I declare an interest.

Ensure that the Board nomination, selection, induction, competence building, evaluation, renewal and de-selection processes are reviewed regularly

This can be started immediately without the need for constitutional change.

Publish in the Annual Report the reasons for, and cost of, the legal fees for directors seeking independent advice concerning their directorial roles

This is to make these costs transparent and, given the recent experiences, to demonstrate the future effectiveness of the induction and competence building processes. Hopefully, it will reduce the tendency to litigation amongst future directors.

Review and publish the remit and membership criteria of the Audit, Remuneration and Nominations Committees

In March 2009, I realise that a start has been made on the Audit Committee. In many businesses it has been found wise to combine the Nominations and Remuneration Committees.

Reconsider the role and processes of the Policy Advisory Body so that it becomes more an 'outward facing' part of the membership's connection and sensitivity to the external stakeholders and the public good.
