

Dear Sirs,

I have asked for comments from people in my department on the consultation and as they are quite brief and specific (relating only to Question 4 of the survey) I thought it would be easier to put in an email rather than complete the full survey.

The comment was something that came in to one of your suggestions for question 4. This was that it seems unfair that non-recoverable costs can be incurred against a party with absolutely no case, and so we are in favour of some kind of "loser pays" system, or something more along those lines.

I hope this is helpful and thank you for allowing us the opportunity to comment.

Many thanks and kind regards

Tom Webley

Solicitor

BBC Litigation Department