

Having looked at the options I feel that option 4 is a little un-representative (although it would suit us best as we only have a relatively small number of domains). Of all the options I feel Option 1 gives the fairest view as it does not depend on how many other people take the time to vote.

I am not sure how many organisations would actually carry 10% of the vote but felt that the 3% value was more appropriate and would have gone for that if it had not been of the total vots CAST.
